Batik painting originated in Egypt, and the word "batik" means "wax writing." Natalie will start the workshop with a demonstration helping to define the uniqueness of this art form while introducing students to the process.

Students will choose from photo examples that are provided or work from a resource of their own. Natalie will give a hands-on understanding of the use of hot wax and dyes. She will teach the "crackle" of wax on fabric to resist the dyes of color that the fabric is dipped in. This is done one color at a time until the work of art is finished.

The second day will consist of students honing the technique while Natalie gives students individual instruction as needed to create their finished painting, or paintings. All supplies are provided by the instructor.
